Not illustrated. 1877 Excerpt: . . . think (for very often people think what they wish) that the expression was never used by Mr. Bridge because he never should have repeated it. But what on earth sent Dr. O'Neill around town bleating, Bridge will stand another shot or eject those fellows, publishing it as effectually as if he had engaged a bellman. Its importance is as showing that Mr. Casey referred to something that was as well known in Mitchelstown as that Mr. Bridge was shot. It has been raid Mr. Bridge did not walk the lands with Mr. Walker on his valuation. Why, it was his duty to walk the lands, and if he did not do it himself his head bailiff did it for him. These, then, are the only mistakes in the letter-first, there were no recipients of outdoor relief on the estate, and that was vouched to Mr. Casey in the manner I have stated; next, that the 63 notices to quit had not come to the process of ejectment, though they went on to it shortly afterwards; and lastly, that Mr. Bridge was not out on the lands with Mr. Walker. Certainly, if these three mistakes constitute a libel, there is an end of all discussion of public affairs. Now, that letter gives a list of the tenants with the old and new rents, and Mr. Bridge has to admit that, subject to a few errors, that account of the raising of rents is substantially correct. And that...
