He remained, however, in England, until June, 1073.3 Before leaving Ireland, in 1637, William oe had appointed his brother, Thomas oe, to act as his agent in Ireland; and during his lengthened absence he remitted to him several sums of money to be held on his behalf. On his return to Ireland, an account was settled between him and his brother, and a sum of 448 los. 1d. xvas admitted by Thomas to be due. In June, 1674, Thomas made a payment on account; but the balance not having been paid, William brought an action for its recovery, and the proceedings were pending when William died, in 1678. Barbara Sedborough, the heiress-at-law of John Sedborough, had, as already stated, married John Maync; and after the death of Elinor, the widow...
