University Press of the Pacific. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 420 pages. Dimensions: 8.4in. x 5.5in. x 1.1in. The Selected Works of Deng Xiaoping and (Volume I) contains forty-three important articles and speeches by Deng Xiaoping from 1938 to 1965, which reflect his important contributions in military affairs, politics, economics and the Party building during the historical periods of the War of Resistance Against Japan, the War of Liberation and seventeen years following the founding of the Peoples Republic of China. Under extremely arduous conditions during the period of the War of Resistance Against Japan (1937-1945), Deng Xiaoping shouldered the responsibility for leading the base areas of resistance against Japan behind the enemy lines in north China. In the nine works of this period included in this volume, he writes about the principles of the leadership and working methods of the Party, the economic development in the anti-Japanese base areas, and the organizational work and the policies and strategies in the enemy-occupied areas, etc. During the period of the War of Liberation (1945-1949), Deng Xiaoping, together with Liu Bocheng, Chen Yi, Su Yu and others, led the Peoples Liberation Army against the KMT troops in many key battles. In the seven works of this period contained in this volume, he explains the strategic principles and deployment for the advance to the Central plains, the establishment of base areas in the Dabie Mountains and the fight for Beijing, Shanghai and Hangzhou. In this period, he also made policies and strategies concerning land reform and Party consolidation in the new liberated areas in the Central plains. The Central Committee of the Communist Party believed that these policies could be universally applied to all new liberated areas and played a part in the formation of policies in the early period after the founding...
